Editorial

May I take this opportunity of first wishing you all a very happy and fulfilled New Year.

2012 promises to be a very interesting year not least because it heralds the completion of one of the great cycles of the famous Mayan calendar. This event will occur at the time of the mid-winter solstice on 21 December this year. The Mayan were an interesting people who lived in Central America and developed a small coherent culture and civilisation between 250 and 900 AD. They were highly competent astronomers and mathematicians and one of their greatest achievements was the establishment of a very exact calendar that closely mirrored the solar cycles of the Earth. This is no mean attainment bearing in mind that European cultures did not come close to achieving the same level of accuracy until the Gregorian calendar was established in 1582. Nor were the Ancient Egyptians able to achieve any better despite the three thousand years of their civilisation.

One of the elements that is significant about this calendar is that its start date has been very well defined being on the equivalent day, in the Gregorian calendar, of August 11, 3114 BC. In the Mayan myths this date heralded the end of a cataclysm and the start of a new cycle based on a Baktun of 144,000 days and a Long Count of Thirteen Baktun, which brings us to the December date this year. There are many people across the planet, who are considering this time with apprehension, believing this date heralds the end of the world in an apocalyptic way. Yet having seen a number of such doom laden pronouncements come and go, over the past forty or so years, I do not have any sense that this year's timing will be any different. Although we may well have some more upheavals on a geophysical as well as political level, I confidently predict that we will still be here for Christmas next year and to this end the Forum is developing and planning a number of events for 2012, not least of which will be our conference in early June, when Dr Tom Zinser will be coming from the States as the 'keynote' speaker. He will be ably supported by Catherine G. Lucas, founder of the Spiritual Crisis Network and psychiatrist Dr David McDonald.

It promises to be a very exciting year, when the vision of this fledgling organisation can be fully grounded. In the six months we have been running the website has grown exponentially, we have run our first training programmes, we have a growing membership and the planned events for 2012 will help us gain the credibility that we have something valuable to offer. In many ways the conference theme says it all; "Working with Soul Consciousness: For Health, Healing and Wellbeing." It was the inner 'higher' guidance of the need to move away from the focus of just "releasing spirits" to placing the connection to our own Spirit beingness at the heart of all that we are doing that was the inspiration behind our new organisation. It is the hero's journey. I do hope you enjoy the pages of this Newsletter and I thank all of the contributors for their input.

Spirit Release Forum Conference - June 2012

Working With Soul Consciousness: For Health, Healing and Wellbeing

"I discovered that the soul, anyone's soul, is unlike any individual or personality type supposed incarnation. It is unique unto itself. I came to recognise the soul as an objective and loving source of limitless knowledge."

Dr. Phyllis Atwater

In 1974 Dr Ralph Allison coined the term the "Inner Self Helper" (ISH) for that part of the psyche that maintains the balance of the Self in multiple personality cases. It has subsequently been recognised by other therapists to be a primary key in the healing of emotional, psychological and spiritual conditions. The ISH can be identified under different names being equated with the Soul, Higher Self or the Daemon, depending on which particular system or reference is used. What is emerging is the extraordinary power of this aspect of our being to effect change at every level and to resolve deep seated psychological issues, such as possession states, when its healing power is accessed. What are the techniques that can be used to connect to this source of seeming infinite wisdom within us and how can its power be utilised to transform and empower all elements of our life? This conference bringing together an eminent team of speakers, including Catherine G. Lucas, founder of the Spiritual Crisis Network, consultant psychiatrist Dr David McDonald and particularly welcoming Dr Tom Zinser, author of "Soul-Centered Healing" on a special trip from the USA, will explore the Soul's power to positively enhance the therapeutic process and to potentially become the guiding light in our journey through life. The conference will be an important source of information to all those in the therapeutic and caring professions and particularly to psychotherapists, psychiatrists, counsellors and healers who can best utilise this source of healing power in their treatments.

Information on the SCN and a review of Catherine's book can be found on page 3.

A day workshop with Dr Tom Zinser

Soul-Centered Healing: A Workshop for Clinicians and Therapists

Soul-Centered Healing is a therapeutic modality that recognizes every person as a physical, psychic, and spiritual being. It also recognizes that there are phenomena, entities, conditions, and forces operating at these levels that can be a source of a person's pain, fear, or confusion.

In the first half of this one-day workshop, Dr. Zinser will discuss these psychic and spirit dimensions of the self, what they mean in our everyday experience, and what can go wrong at these levels to cause serious problems and distress. He will discuss the energetic, psychic and spirit phenomena that can present in a person's healing process. These include a person's higher self; sub-personalities (past life and present); attachment or intrusion by spirits or other kinds of beings; blockages involving etheric devices or energies (created within the self/soul or introduced from outside).

In the second half of the workshop, Dr. Zinser will discuss the basic protocols for identifying and dealing with each kind of phenomenon as it presents in the healing process. While the workshop does not offer training in the use of these protocols, Dr. Zinser will describe the basic strategies and formulas used by each of the protocols. He will also describe how these phenomena can co-exist and interact with each other to create conflicts and entanglements at these inner levels.

This workshop will challenge and stimulate your thinking about who we are and the reality in which we live. It will also offer a view of healing that integrates the psychic and spirit dimensions of the self with the physical, emotional and psychological dimensions.

Spiritual
Crisis
Network by Catherine G. Lucas

The Spiritual Crisis Network (SCN) exists to promote understanding and support for those going through profound personal transformation. Founded by Catherine G Lucas in 2004, the SCN gained charitable status in 2009 and currently has six Directors on its Board.

A spiritual crisis is a turbulent period of spiritual opening or transformation. Spiritual crisis is also known as spiritual emergency, where a process of spiritual emergence, or awakening, becomes unmanageable for the individual. Psychological or mental health difficulties may be experienced: if understood and supported appropriately, these experiences can be deeply transformative, offering the possibility of breakthrough rather than breakdown.

The SCN's vision is to act as a resource:

1. for those going through or recovering from spiritual crisis
2. for professionals, carers and supporters of those going through or recovering from spiritual crisis

The SCN does this by offering an email support service and providing general information on spiritual crisis through the website: www.SpiritualCrisisNetwork.org.uk The SCN also facilitates a national network of local groups of people with experience, interest or involvement in spiritual crisis. Current local groups include Leeds, London and Stroud.

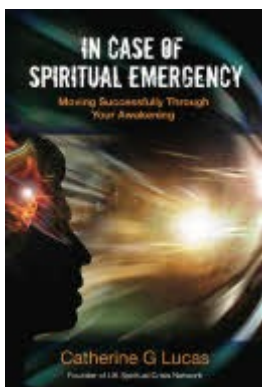

You can contact the SCN at:

Book Review

In Case of Spiritual Emergency

by Catherine G Lucas

Most humans experience traumas at some level in their lives. Some only experience a temporary glitch; for others the consequence can be more long term leading to a diagnosis of psychosis, depression or mental breakdown. However, Catherine G. Lucas, Founder of UK Spiritual Crisis Network and accredited Mindfulness Trainer, indicates that these traumas can be spiritual crises, situations of "dark night of the soul" or quite often a combination of the above. Traditional counselling and medication do not always result in successful outcomes.

In her book, Lucas supplies sample cases throughout the ages and clearly summarizes over twenty years of current psychological research. Drawing on her own experiences and those of her clients, she discusses in detail the symptoms of spiritual emergencies and the supportive approaches which can bring about mental and emotional relief.

Particularly helpful sections are the "Three Key Phases For Moving Successfully Through Spiritual Emergency" namely, Coping; Making Sense and Emerging. Listed under 'Resources', we also find valuable information on spiritual emergency networks, blogs, websites, CDs, DVDs and, crucially, places to stay during times of crisis.

I have found this book extremely helpful in my practice. The information is gathered and relayed in a clear, precise and comprehensible manner. The suggested methods can be put into practise and the book itself can be used for reference by both clients and practitioners. Those going through spiritual crises, mental health professionals, carers and pastoral care specialists alike will find this book of great assistance.

The Need for Scientific Research

by Terry Palmer

Evidence that a wide range of distressing mental, emotional and physical conditions have their origins in a spiritual source presents itself every day in the consulting rooms of psychiatrists and clinical psychologists. But medical science, grounded in the epistemological foundations of physics, chemistry and biology is not equipped to recognise a spiritual domain. This means that many patients are misdiagnosed and therefore not treated with appropriate interventions.

It is therefore necessary for medical science to be able to expand its frames of reference and accommodate real subjective experiences in order that they can be treated effectively. This can only be done if we contribute evidence from our own clinical practice and present our findings through scientific papers, reputable journals and at medical and psychological conferences.

In the next Forum Newsletter I shall offer guidance on how to collect evidence in your own consulting room in order that it may be used to contribute to the scientific knowledge base that is desperately needed in this field.

Ed. - Terry's initiative is very important and this is a project that we would like to support. Terry can be contacted through his website. Terry Palmer - <http://www.transpersonalpsychologist.net/>

And now for something completely different. A fantastic new discovery has already happened in 2012. This is just the start!

An Important New Chakra Has been Discovered!

by John Morton

Scientists have found that all our problems can be placed under one heading:

Seriousness!

Seriousness is the leading cause of everything from cancer to reincarnation.

Sages have already discovered a new source of healing for this condition.

It is a psychic energy point located between the heart chakra and the throat chakra.

It is called the Clown Chakra.

If people are feeling miserable, if they have financial problems, if their relationship situation is the pits, if they are in ill health, if they have a need to sue people, if they find fault with their brother, then obviously, their Clown Chakra is closed.

When this happens, scientists have observed under a high-powered microscope, that the cells of every organ display a sad face, and when the Clown Chakra is open and functioning normally, the cells display a happy face.

The sages realized that if a person is ill, it is because his mind has projected guilt onto the cells of his body and has forced out the love that is normally found within each cell of the body. The cells are therefore saying, "I Lack Love," or "ILL" for short. The sages also discovered that all disease is due to the fact that the cells are out of ease or dis-eased.

When the Clown Chakra is opened and working (or rather, playing) properly, the psychic mechanism sucks up misery, pain, anger, resentment, grievances, unhappiness, etc., and converts the energy into tiny, red, heart-shaped balloons.

The red heart-shaped balloons contain Love and Joy.

These balloons are directed to the dis-eased cell or situation and a happy face appears instantly.

When the light enters the darkness, the darkness is gone. Sometimes these red heart-shaped balloons are called endorphins, due to the fact that when anyone experiences them, the feeling of separation ends. They experience being back home with All That Is.

Hence they are no longer an orphan.

This is the well-known end-orphan effect.

So, if you think someone is attacking you, Clown Sages recommend that you visualize sending that person red, heart-shaped balloons filled with Love and Joy.

Remember to always keep your Clown Chakra open... and remember to keep laughing

Beware! Seriousness causes reincarnation.

Be true to your heart always-this is a full time job, but a job to celebrate!

London Healing Day - Report

On Sunday 19 November a small group of us met at the West Brompton Cemetery to visit and help heal and balance some of the sites that create an alignment between the cemetery and the Tower of London. On the way we also visited a little known site of a bombed church known as Christchurch, Westminster Abbey, Southwark Cathedral and the Tower. At each of these sites we had a group attunement and sent thoughts of healing and release for any earthbound spirits that wished to move on. It was very interesting comparing notes on what we all had sensed after each session. We ended the day with a personal tour of the Tower of London with Penny Sydenham who managed to get us in for free.

The next healing day will be on Sunday 1st April, where we will explore the alignment between the West Brompton Cemetery and Boudicca's mound on Hampstead Heath. This will include a private visit to Kensington Palace as well as passing by the place where the Tyburn hangings occurred. There is still much healing required.

See website for full details:

Dr Roger Woolger

We were very saddened to hear of the passing of Dr Roger Woolger at the end of last year. I first got to meet Roger, in the late 1980's, when I was Director of Wrekin Trust I invited him to come to the UK and speak at a conference that I was planning on Past Lives. The conference was a great success and laid the foundations for Roger's regular connection with the UK and the development of his training programmes, which many of you will have attended. He was was one of the real pioneers bridging the link between orthodox psychotherapy and a more holistic view on the nature of our being that recognised the importance of the soul and its journey through incarnations. He spoke at the last Spirit Release Foundation conference in October 2009.

David Furlong

The following was submitted by Wendy Ellyatt who has been involved in the founding of a support group for those who have been through his training.

The Soul Voyagers Network

www.soul-voyagers.net is a new website that has been created by a group of like-minded therapists and creative seekers who originally came together through their involvement in Deep Memory Process (DMP) - the broad-based therapy developed by the Jungian psychologist and author Dr Roger Woolger.

Deep Memory Process is a practical and highly effective therapy of the soul which combines active imagination (Jung), bodywork (Reich) and psychodrama (Moreno) with shamanic/spirit journeying and integration between lifetimes derived from the Buddhist bardo wisdom of The Tibetan Book of the Dead. Rooted in yoga concepts of the subtle bodies and shamanism, and drawing upon Tibetan teachings about death and transition through various bardo or intermediary states, it has been recognized as a major contribution to transpersonal psychotherapy.

The community is now open to all professional therapists, students and experienced seekers working within DMP and similar transpersonal fields. In this way it seeks to expand and promote the deep healing work facilitated by regression practice, holotropic breathwork, ancestral fieldwork, constellation work, psychodrama, bodywork and shamanism.

It also seeks to promote the vital importance of such a synthesis of understanding and practice and to find ways of maintaining the deep bonds that are created between those that have shared the experience.

Membership to the network is free and you simply need to sign up to join. In order to benefit from the depth of experience within the community they do, however, request that you have a body of related experience in the transpersonal field.

Quotation

You see things; and you say, "Why?"
But I dream things that never were; and I say, "Why not?"

George Bernard Shaw (1856-1950) "Back to Methuselah" (1921)

A Healing Case

Daimonic Healing (Not Demonic Healing)

In past times we used to talk about our guides. More recently the term Daimonic imagination has come to be used for the part of the psyche that can inspire us though our daily lives. Whether it is an aspect of our own being, such as the 'higher-self' or some separate spirit intelligence matters not, the important part is that we can all be inspired.

Throughout my life I have been fortunate to have this form of help, which has rarely let me down, and when I have fallen down it was generally because I did not listen. Be that as it may this intelligence has been very helpful though my therapeutic work and I wish to share an interesting example for healing past patterns that stem from this lifetime.

The case in question involved an individual who felt that they had some deep seated issues that stemmed from their mother's problems and attitudes in pregnancy and then continued throughout their childhood, creating imbalances that then had followed them through into middle age. What follows is the guided induction process to correct these issues. It should be pointed out the individual in question has a profound spiritual belief and a recognition of karma and past lives.

The steps:

1. Close your eyes, relax and now link to your 'higher-self'.
2. Imagine that you are in your safe sacred space and relay what you are experiencing there.
3. Link to the Archangel Raphael or any Being that you sense represents and holds the pattern of your karmic past.
4. Ask to be made aware of that point in your previous incarnations when your soul and body were in the finest level of balance and harmony and relay what you experience when you do this.
5. Now imagine the embryonic seed of yourself outside of your mother's womb and imagine that you are holding that seed in your hands, seeing it slowly develop, filled with your love and support.
6. Allow this seed to grow through foetal stage, into babyhood and then through childhood, all of the time sensing and feeling a perfect loving nurturing environment that you are holding for them.
7. Check at each stage what you are sensing and feeling, doing this by holding their hands.

8. When they have reached the same age as yourself, turn around with your back to them and imagine that they are slowly merging into your back.
9. At the same time that this is going on imagine that all of the imbalances from this lifetime are flowing out from the front of your body into a golden sack or bowl. Periodically send the sack or the bowl up into the sunlight for cleansing and release.
10. Allow the energy of the new 'you' to permeate every cell of your body.
11. Thank your guides and helpers for what you have experienced and slowly bring yourself back to full waking consciousness.

The effect of this exercise on my client was quite profound and powerfully transformative although it will only be in the longer term that it will be possible to evaluate the full effect of this process.

A day event in Malvern exploring spirit release issues

Spirit Release and Soul Retrieval - Case Studies and Healing Principles

Led by David Furlong and Semele Xerri

This will be an open sharing day looking at broad areas connected to spirit attachment and spirit release within the therapeutic paradigm. As well as presenting a number of case studies we will look at the role of traumas, within sub-personalities or 'ego' states, which can act as linking points for attachments and the crucial role of 'higher-self' or 'soul consciousness' in resolving these stuck or invasive energies. We will also consider the way that soul fragments or dissociative aspects of the psyche can be mistaken for attached entities.

The day will be valuable to all those working with difficult psychological and psychic situations.

Venue: The Friends Meeting House, Orchard Road, Malvern, Worcs WR14 3DA.

Date: Saturday 10 March 10:00 am- 16:30 pm

Fee: £25:00 - (£20:00 for members of Spirit Release Forum). Pre-booking is essential.

Booking: Cheque payments to SRF (Universal) Ltd should be made in full and sent to The Secretary, The Spirit Release Forum, c/o Myrtles, Como Road, Malvern Worcs WR14 2TH

Training Courses in Spirit Release Therapy

The Spirit Release Forum runs training courses towards becoming a Spirit Release therapist. The basis of this course was developed when I was Chair of Education in the SR Foundation. It will, in addition, contain updates based upon the recognition of the importance of 'higher-self' and soul consciousness in the therapeutic process, as well as techniques for accessing and clearing blocks and attachments in 'ego states' and 'sub-personalities', which is very much in line with the work of Dr Tom Zinser from the States.

We ran an Introductory Training course in November, which was very well received with some very positive feedback comments being posted on our Facebook page. (see <https://www.facebook.com/pages/Spirit-Release-Forum/139196262771404>). We have more introductory courses planned for the rest of the year, details of which can be found on our website. Our next Introductory Course will be on 11/12 February in London. Looking to the future we are also considering holding training courses in Malvern, Worcestershire and have a course planned for Galway in Ireland in June this year.

The Introductory course is the first step in process of full Part 1 training, which will be held on the 4/5 March in London. Students that have completed an Introductory or Foundation training course or my own three part "Working with Earth Energies" course are eligible to attend. The trainers for this course will include, Pat Bromley, Adrian Doyle, Frida Sison and myself. Places are booking up so if you are interested please let us know as soon as possible.

Website updates ~

Since the last Newsletter there have been many new additions to the website, with articles in both the Self-Help and Background information parts of the site. We have had some wonderful in depth articles. Judy Hall, author of '101 Power Crystals' and 'Good Vibrations', has sent in a detailed account of how crystals can be used for spirit release work. Homeopath Pat Bromley has provided self-help articles on Australian Flower Essences, Bach Flower Remedies and Homeopathy. Terry Palmer has sent in some general articles on "The Spirit of Fear" and "Beyond Boundaries" and Mark Sterry-Blunt has made some further contributions to the Background articles. And I too have added some information in the Self-Help and Background areas of the site.

There is still an enormous amount to do. We would welcome practical articles for the Self-Help section on EFT (Emotional Freedom Technique), Music Therapy, Nutrition and Diet and any useful Emotional and Physical exercises. Further background articles would also be valued. Finally we also need case studies, which should give insights into the methods used and any success or otherwise in the treatments.

The following is a list of the new articles with their links. You do not need to be a member to access the Self-Help section but we will require a signed disclaimer and email address, one of the slightly irksome but very necessary elements in this litigious age.

Transforming the Eternal Soul

Further Insights from Regression Therapy
Edited by Andy Tomlinson

This book contains a wealth of information from seven contributors connected with the Spiritual Regression Therapy Association. The chapter titles give insight into the themes covered.

1. Integration and Moving Forward - Reena Kumrasingham
2. Working with Dark Energy - Andy Tomlinson
3. Spiritual Inner-Child Healing - Hazel Newton
4. Regression Therapy in Medical practice - Peter Mack
5. Working With Difficult Clients - Tatjana K uchler
6. Using Crystals in Regression - Christine McBride
7. Empowering a Client - Chris Hanson

This is a book for practising therapists and whilst some of the techniques may be familiar there are those that have arisen from the different authors' direct experiences and therefore add some potentially valuable insights and techniques that might successfully be applied within a therapeutic encounter. This book will certainly be on the recommended readers list for those attending our training courses.

YouTube Videos

Those that have looked at our site will have seen a heading, in the top right-hand corner of the column referenced, Watch/Listen. One of the intentions when this site was set up was to have a series of short videos both covering and expanding on the themes of each page. These videos could also be posted to YouTube to expand the outreach of what we are trying to do. As in all areas of expertise, video making is a specialist activity and I am delighted to announce that Helena Park has joined the team to help us with this specialist area. We have posted a few videos so far to YouTube but I hope that over the next few months many more will appear. We will certainly be videoing the conference and workshop with Dr Zinser as well as some of the training courses and workshops. We feel it is important to keep abreast of these modern developments.

The videos to date are:

- The Near Death Experience: Interview with Dr Elizabeth K ubler-Ross
- Visions of Hope: Introduction to Near Death
